

Ol' Don's Drawing Table

© 2012

Profile pattern view

Front pattern
view

Yup, Ol' Slim has a PHD. But, of course, in his case that stands for Post Hole Digger.

A vertical grain is best for this project.

SORTA SLIM, PHD

I would carve him without the post hole shovel. Drill suitable size holes through his fists before carving his hands but keep in mind that his forearms are cross grain so use extreme care when drilling the holes. The brim of his hat is also cross grain. I usually carve hat brims thin at the edge but taper them thicker towards the crown to keep them from breaking.

